THIS WEEK’S FEATURED TOPICS

ARE YOU SURE YOU ARE IN THE RIGHT PLACE?

Welcome back dear friends, to the show that never ends. So glad you could attend, come inside, come inside!

OK, yeah we stole that and personalized it a bit, but it ever so eloquently states how we feel. If you haven’t actually seen the TRF grounds yet, you need to come inside and reserve some time for a thorough and reverent tour to see all of the new features and improvements for 2012. From a huge new eatery, to a beautiful, shiny new Globe stage (with tearful sympathies to those that mourn the passing of the iconic old structure that was about to fall down anyway), to the huge addition to the patron campground, TRF continues to be the show that never ends. But as nice as all the new stuff is, TRF will always be about the people that make the magic happen. And that is all of us. Each one of us is responsible to live up to the effort that goes into creating this unique time machine for the enjoyment of patrons and participants alike. And it’s time to do it again!

On your mark... get set...

PARTY LIKE IT’S THE END OF THE WORLD!

OK boys and girls, this could well be your last chance to live it up at TRF. According to some people (that apparently have too much time on their hands), the Mayan calendar ends on December 21st and the rest of the world is scheduled to end with it. Of course it is entirely up to you to believe whatever silly predictions you choose, but what if these people are actually right? Should we throw caution and good taste to the four winds and go and have a season with parties of biblical proportions? The answer to this rhetorical question is of course, “Well duhhh!” Even in the best of times, we only need the flimsiest of excuses to repeatedly pull out all the stops and this seems like a really good reason. So break out the ale or other adult beverage of your choice and go live large! There is only one rule: The first person to roll out a “YOLO!”* in public will be subjected to relentless ridicule and unbearable taunts.

ROUND TWO?

Do you remember the horde of douche bags that treated the entire county to sustained noise until four in the morning about this time last year? Well that same crowd has been making grand plans on the interwebs to turn the brand new Patron campground into a large-ish outdoor Rave Club again this year. Not just once mind you, but every weekend of the season, according to their enthusiastic blogs. TRF management has stated that they are all over this and there will be no problems. However, we intend to have some of our underground reporters on the scene in case this proves to be inaccurate. We want to be sure to have first-hand information and pics of the epic battle sequence that will inevitably result when the normal people take care of the problem.

POLITICAL BULLSHIT

It’s another presidential election year and once again we are asked to pick the best of the worst to lead the free world for another four years. The candidates’ campaigns have been ugly, dirty and uncivilized in the best tradition of American politics and a lot of people are sick to death of the whole thing. However, if you feel a continuing need to expound on your views, we actually want to know what you think. So please send your political rants to trfwtf@yahoo.com. Note that submissions selected to print may be edited for the bare minimum requirements of literacy (no offense).

Now, THAT’S scary...

IMAGES YOU CAN'T UN-SEE (CULINARY EDITION)

It's just so delicious!

Is there a TRF food vendor with the balls to sell these?

CYANIDE AND HAPPINESS

TIME CRASH

It may be medieval times within the hallowed acreage of TRF, but the 21st century just hit the Patron campgrounds. It seems that there is now WiFi internet access available out there. From the advertising on it, it apparently covers quite a respectable amount of ground, too. There is only one slight problem: drunk people + internet. Yes, pissed patrons with access to the internet will be either hilarious or horrifying, depending on your appreciation of such things. We are definitely going to keep an eye on this one.

PRIVY PROFUNDITY

SHOLO

Hilton Jackson, better known as Sholo The Nubian, has had a rough time of it during the past few months. He scared the hell out of everybody a few times, but he appears to have power leveled through a complicated medical crisis and is now mending up nicely. Reports are that he will be seen in New Market Village this year and we can't wait.

There's a group on FaceBook, "Friends of Sholo The Nubian" at: <https://www.facebook.com/groups/458690180818689/> where you can go to find the whole story. You can also find a link to a PayPal account set up to help with the medical bills. Whether you know Hilton personally or not, this is something everyone needs to jump on. Sholo is an icon and the man behind the character is too. There is power in community. Go help Hilton. Now.

2012 TRF ROCKSTAR AWARDS

We will be taking nominations for the TRF Rockstar Awards for 2012, as we do every year. These awards are presented to outstanding people that are held up by their peers as the best of the best. There are no cash prizes, no appearances on TV and no eternal glory, but having everyone at TRF know that you are the champion is well worth the effort to attempt to earn this award. It isn't a popularity contest either, because to nominate someone, you have to explain why they deserve it and the explanation has to stand up to being researched for accuracy. The categories this year are for best vendor and best entertainer. Email us with your nomination at trfwtf@yahoo.com!
